

How to Use CIRCABC

The EURLs for Residues of Pesticides use the CIRCABC platform for managing internal documents between EURLs, NRLs and OFLs. This platform allows to quickly upload and exchange documents, restrict file access and keep track of changes in the version history.

The platform is provided by the European Commission, which also provides access for other subject specific interest groups. The EURLs have their own subsection, called EURL for Pesticides. Once registered, you have access to documents from all four EURL fields, i.e. no individual registration for the different EURL fields is necessary.

The working group EURL for Pesticides is open for

- members of official institutes working in the field of pesticide residues
- members of private laboratories sub-contracted by a Member State for official analysis.

We have to ensure that people applying for membership are working in an eligible institute. Thus, persons registered in CIRCA with an email account belonging to their institute are accepted, only.

If you have not registered in CIRCABC yet, you have to perform two steps:

1. Register on the ECAS registration page using an official email-address of your institute. Choose "Create an account" You can select the language of interest.
